

LSR 421 : Life Science Research Project I

The courses represent a two-semester-term individually guided investigation project involving laboratory work and/or computational investigation in some aspect of Biomedical Science. The background, results and conclusions of the study to be reported in the form of an oral presentation and progress report by the end of Fall semester, and a thesis and final defense at the end of the course.

Credits 3

Prerequisites

LSR 302