

STA 212 : Probability and Statistics for Engineers

The course is designed to teach students the basics of probability and statistics as used in engineering and the sciences. The course covers introduction to probability theory, random variables, statistics, and regression.

Credits 3

Prerequisite Courses

MAT 112