

ISL 112 : Islamic Studies II

Discusses both community and family systems in Islam, their underpinnings and mechanisms for reform. It examines the problems these systems encounter, and shatters misconceptions about them. It also presents the application of Sharia Law in pertinent contexts. The course counts as the social science component of the university's General Education Requirements.

Credits 2

Prerequisite Courses

ISL 101